

Spetchley Park — Gardens —

Accessibility

The Gardens – Paths

Spetchley Park Gardens is flat with easily accessible paths – some paths are gravelled which can be difficult to traverse with a wheelchair (particularly between the Long Walk and the White Bridge near the main house).

Other areas of the garden are accessible over grass, such as the route from the New Lawn, around the back of the Lake and over to the main lawn.

The Fountain Gardens have narrow stone paths. These paths are part of their historic design but can make access difficult.

On arrival you will be offered a map that denotes various routes that can be taken.
